

My First Balloon Ride

One day my mom, Dad and my awesome dog, Stewie went to go shop downtown. This is the best place to shop. We parked with the windows rolled down and before we knew Stewie rapidly jumped out the window to chase a squirrel. Stewie just disappeared. We started to look for him, when a nice man said; "I have a Remax Balloon if you want to use it to look for your dog". The little boy Brandon said "that would be great".

We made as many flyers as we could hold on the balloon of the lost dog Stewie. Then, up up and away we went. We dumped all the flyers of Stewie over town as people started to collect them. We could hear the voices from below saying, what a cute dog, lets find him and put the brakes to this case, but Stewie was no where to be found. Brandon was sad, but glad at the same time because he was sad Stewie was lost but glad because he had never ridden in a balloon before. Brandon could see all the different Murals in Sussex, what an awesome view.

Then suddenly, the wind picked up and we landed on Subways' roof. Brandon went down the ladder in the back with the rest of his folks. Right away we heard a barking sound. A light bulb popped in my head as he said "I know that bark anywhere" We checked every place on Main Street, but one, Scotia Bank, then as we entered the building we heard a crunch crunch crunch, Oh! My goodness!!!, there was Stewie munching on hundreds of bundles of Money!!! Won't that be a debt to pay? But that's another story.
